

Hello my name is Reginald Craft. I'm a student at the University of South Carolina and I'm studying Computer Engineering. I'm passionate about working on computers and discovering how different electronics work. My goal is to one day become a well decorated computer or electronic designer working for a famous company. Having a lavish lifestyle to support my family in a big state like California or New York.